Whether I listen to the weather and traffic stations or not has absolutely nothing to do with the fact that the FCC has no right to prohibit XM Radio from providing those services to people who prefer XM Radio traffic over local stations. It comes down to this...if they don't like it...too bad. It's a free country right? Or IS it? Pass another law and take away more freedoms than we've already lost due to ridiculous laws. I've had it with lawmakers in this country pushing people around, screwing them with the legal system. It's all nonsense. We're supposed to be a free country, it was founded that way and it should stay that way. Unfortunately it hasn't, our forefathers would probably be rolling in their graves.
